

Free Energy Surveys to help you keep warm and save money this winter

Following the success of their energy surveys project last winter, charity Zero Carbon Guildford are offering even more free home energy surveys this winter. Using an advanced thermal imaging camera, the survey will pinpoint places where your home is leaking energy. You will get tips on how to reduce your energy bills, stop draughts, stay warm and cut your carbon footprint. They have free energy saving materials like draught proof to give away and will help you find out about funding for home energy improvements. To see if you are eligible for a free survey email energysurveys@zerocarbonguildford.org.
